14	RALPH DIAZ, Secretary of CDCR, MARCUS POLLARD, Warden, Richard J. Donovan Correctional Facility, DANIEL PARAMO, former Warden, Richard J. Donovan Correctional Facility E. RAMIREZ, Correctional Officer and DOES 1-70, Inclusive and
15	jointry and Severany,
16	Defendants.
17	COMES NOW Plaintiff ANAND JON ALEXANDER, by and through his
18	attorney, and hereby alleges:
19 20	JURISDICTION
20	1. This lawsuit for money damages is brought pursuant to the provisions of 42
21	U.S.C. § 1983 and pendant state law claims. Federal jurisdiction is founded upon
22	the existence of a federal question, the Civil Rights Act, 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and
23	lies under 28 U.S.C. § 1331. The remaining causes of action arise under
24	California state law and lie under the supplemental jurisdiction of this Court (28
25 26	U.S.C. § 167).
26	VENUE
27 28	2. Venue in the Southern District of California is proper because the acts or

1		omissions which form the basis of the claims occurred in this district.
2		PARTIES and RELEVANT ENTITIES
3	3.	At all times relevant to this complaint, ANAND JON ALEXANDER ("Mr.
4		ALEXANDER" or "Plaintiff") was a lawful permanent resident of the United
5		States residing in San Diego County, California.
6	4.	The California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (hereinafter
7		"CDCR"), not sued herein, is and was at all material times mentioned herein a
8		governmental agency organized under the laws and regulations of the State of
9		California. Its headquarters are in Sacramento. CDCR operates all state
10		correctional institutions, oversees a variety of community correctional facilities
11		and camps, and monitors all parolees during their entry back into society.
12		a. Richard J. Donovan Correctional Facility is and was at all material times
13		mentioned one such state correctional institution. It is a state prison
14		located on 789 acres in southern San Diego County, California, near the
15		U.SMexico border. It is operated by CDCR. It is the only state prison in
16		San Diego County. According to RJDCF's official web page, it is "a
17		multi-mission institution: RJDCF's primary mission is to provide housing
18		for General Population and SNY, Level I, II, III & IV inmates serving
19		their term of incarceration at RJDCF." "SNY, Level I, II, III & IV" are
20		different classes of inmates, ranked according to various security criteria.
21		b. CDCR Correctional Lieutenants and Sergeants are on duty at all CDCR
22		Institutions, including RJDCF, and are assigned to all facilities. They are
23		responsible for the safety and security of inmates, as well as the
24		supervision of personnel below him or her in the chain of command,
25		including sergeants, correctional officers, and other CDCR/RJDCF
26		employees and agents who have a legal duty to appropriately supervise
27		and protect inmates under their care, including Plaintiff. These
28		Lieutenants and Sergeants are tasked with ensuring those people they

1			supervise properly perform their duties, which include conducting proper
2			safety checks, ensuring inmate safety, ensuring proper housing of inmates
3			and generally supervising inmates.
4		c.	CDCR Correctional Officers are known as "floor officers" and are on-duty
5			at all CDCR Institutions, including RJDCF, and are assigned to all
6			facilities. They are the primary officials with whom prisoners interact.
7			They are responsible for the safety and security of inmates and have a
8			legal duty to appropriately supervise and protect inmates under their care,
9			including Plaintiff. Their duties include conducting proper safety checks,
10			ensuring inmate safety, ensuring proper housing of inmates and generally
11			supervising inmates, including enforcing geographical restrictions. Not
12			all Correctional Officers are "floor officers" but all "floor officers" are
13			Correctional Officers.
14		d.	There are also Correctional Counselors at RJDCF, who conduct
15			classifications designed to properly designate inmates to be housed under
16			particular conditions and in particular locations. Factors they consider
17			include, but are not limited to, status as a prison gang dropout or member,
18			race/ethnicity, offense of conviction, history of violence, and others. (See
19			infra ¶¶ 20-22)
20	5.	At all	times relevant hereto, CDCR was responsible for supervising employees
21		condu	act, policies, and practices, as well as the hiring, retaining, and training of
22		its en	ployees and agents, including Defendants RALPH DIAZ, MARCUS
23		POLI	LARD, DANIEL PARAJO, E. RAMIREZ, and DOE Defendants 1-70.
24	6.	RAL	PH DIAZ, MARCUS POLLARD, DANIEL PARAJO, E. RAMIREZ and
25		DOE	Defendants 1-70 are sued in their individual capacities. At all material
26		times	, these individual Defendants held titles and participated generally as
27		follow	ws in this matter:
20		0	Defendent DAIDUDIAZ ("DIAZ") was at all relevent times the Secretary

28a.Defendant RALPH DIAZ ("DIAZ") was at all relevant times the Secretary of CDCR, and highest policymaking official of CDCR, responsible for the 1 promulgation of the policies, procedures, and allowance of the practices 2 3 and customs, pursuant to which the acts of the employees of the CDCR, alleged herein, were committed. DIAZ was charged by law and was 4 responsible for the administration of CDCR and was responsible for the 5 6 supervision, training, and hiring of persons, agents, and employees 7 working within the CDCR, including prison staff, correctional officers, 8 correctional sergeants, correctional lieutenants, and other staff, and was responsible for the oversight, management, proper housing and 9 classification of CDCR inmates, safety of CDCR inmates, provision of 10 11 mental health and medical care services to CDCR inmates, protection of CDCR inmates, and compliance with Court orders, inter alia. 12 b. As of August 12, 2019, Defendant MARCUS POLLARD ("POLLARD") 13 was at all relevant times employed by the CDCR as the Warden of 14 Richard J. Donovan Correctional Facility in San Diego County, 15 16 California ("RJDCF"). He was responsible for the proper housing and 17 classification of RJDCF inmates, including Plaintiff and Dominic Rizzo, the RJDCF inmate who assaulted Plaintiff, was responsible for the safety 18 and supervision of RJDCF inmates, the provision of mental health and 19 medical care services to RJDCF inmates, and, in general, the protection of 20 RJDCF inmates, including Plaintiff, as well as the promulgation of the 21 policies, procedures, and allowance of the practices and customs, pursuant 22 to which the acts of the employees of RJDCF, alleged herein, were 23 committed. Defendant POLLARD was also charged by law and was 24 responsible for the administration of RJDCF and was responsible for the 25 26 supervision, training, and hiring of persons, agents, and employees working within RJDCF, including prison staff, correctional officers, 27 correctional sergeants, correctional lieutenants, and other staff, and, inter 28 alia, mental health staff.

Prior to August 12, 2019, Defendant DANIEL PARAMO ("PARAMO") 2 c. was at all relevant times employed by the CDCR as the Warden of 3 Richard J. Donovan Correctional Facility in San Diego County, 4 California ("RJDCF"). employed by the CDCR as the Warden of Richard 5 J. Donovan Correctional Facility in San Diego County, California 6 7 ("RJDCF"). He was responsible for the proper housing and classification 8 of RJDCF inmates, including Plaintiff and Dominic Rizzo, the RJDCF 9 inmate who assaulted Plaintiff, was responsible for the safety and supervision of RJDCF inmates, the provision of mental health and medical 10 11 care services to RJDCF inmates, and, in general, the protection of RJDCF inmates, including Plaintiff, as well as the promulgation of the policies, 12 procedures, and allowance of the practices and customs, pursuant to which 13 the acts of the employees of RJDCF, alleged herein, were committed. 14 Defendant POLLARD was also charged by law and was responsible for 15 the administration of RJDCF and was responsible for the supervision, 16 training, and hiring of persons, agents, and employees working within 17 RJDCF, including prison staff, correctional officers, correctional 18 sergeants, correctional lieutenants, and other staff, and, inter alia, mental 19 health staff. 20 21 i. On information and belief, it is highly probable that Defendant PARAMO was either present at the classification meeting when it 22 was decided, via committee override discretion, that Rizzo would 23 be housed on a Level III yard, as opposed to the appropriate Level 24 IV yard, or Defendant PARAMO was notified of the decision, and 25 failed to reverse it, in effect approving of it. 26 Defendant E. RAMIREZ at all material times, was a CDCR Correctional 27 d. Officer who was on-duty in Facility D at RJDCF at the time Plaintiff was 28

1			assaulted, and was responsible or the safety and security of inmates in
2			Facility D. He was required to properly perform his duties, including
3			conducting safety checks, supervising inmates, and performing other tasks
4			to ensure inmate safety, proper housing and the safety of RJDCF inmates
5			in the facility he was in charge of, ensuring that the periodic supervision.
6		e.	Defendants DOES 1-10 were CDCR Lieutenants and/or Sergeants that
7			were on-duty at the time Plaintiff was assaulted. Their duties are
8			described above in \P 4(b).
9		f.	Defendants DOES 11-30 were CDCR Correctional Officers or other
10			CDCR employees that were on duty at relevant times. Their duties are
11			described above in \P 4(c).
12		g.	Defendants DOES 31-50 were, at all materials times, responsible for the
13			proper housing and classification of RJDCF inmates, including Plaintiff
14			and Rizzo, and made the decision to house these inmates together. Their
15			duties are described above in $\P 4(d)$.
16		h.	DOES 51-70 were, at all material times, responsible for providing medical
17			care, including mental health treatment, to inmates at RJDCF, including,
18			but not limited to, ensuring inmates, including Plaintiff, were treated, if
19			indicated, with proper medications.
20	7.	The 1	true names or capacities, whether individual, corporate, associate, or
21		other	wise, of Defendants named herein as DOES 1 through 70 are unknown to
22		Plain	tiff, who therefore sues said Defendants by said fictitious names. Plaintiff
23		will a	amend this Complaint to show said Defendants' true names and capacities
24		wher	the same have been ascertained. Plaintiff is informed, believes, and
25		there	on alleges that all Defendants sued herein as DOES are in some manner
26		respo	onsible for the acts, omissions, and injuries alleged herein. Some of the DOE
27		Defe	ndants 1 through 70 may have the same identity.
28	8.	Mr. A	ALEXANDER is informed and believes and therefore alleges that at all
I

1 times mentioned herein that the acts of DOES 1-70 were done under the color and pretense of the statutes, ordinances, regulations, customs and usages of the 2 3 State of California. Mr. ALEXANDER is informed and believes and therefore alleges that at all times mentioned herein that DOES 1-70 were the agents, 4 5 servants, and/or employees of CDCR and were, in doing the acts herein alleged, 6 acting within the course and scope of this agency and/or employment, and with 7 the permission, consent and authority of CDCR, and the State (not sued herein) 8 is therefore responsible for the occurrences hereinafter alleged; and that Mr. 9 ALEXANDER' injuries were proximately caused by the actions of Defendants. Prior to the filing of this Complaint and on or about November 18, 2019, Mr. 10 9. 11 ALEXANDER filed a written claim with the State of California for the injuries 12 alleged herein as required by, inter alia, California Government Code §§ 905, 13 905.2 and 945.4. On or about December 24, 2019, Mr. ALEXANDER' claims were deemed rejected as a matter of law due to the lack of a formal written 14 15 denial within 45 days. The administrative claims process need not be followed as 16 a prerequisite to bringing suit as to the claims brought under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. 17 Patsy v. Board of Regents, 457 U.S. 496 (1982); Heath v. Cleary, 708 F.2d 1376, 18 1378 (9th Cir. 1983). 19 Further, Mr. ALEXANDER has complied with the provisions of the Prison 10. Litigation Reform Act ("PLRA"), 42 U.S.C. § 1997e(a), to the extent required. 20 21 GENERAL ALLEGATIONS 22 11. ANAND JON ALEXANDER, CDCR #AB1337, is an Indian-born, American fashion designer who graduated from the Parsons School of Design and was 23 24 listed in Newsweek's "Who's Next in 2007?" He has received many awards and 25 recognitions and has been named a cultural ambassador of India for his 26 contribution to fashion. He won the "Rising Star Award" for Fashion Week of

3	12.	A few months after receiving investment capital from several Wall Street
4		investment banks in 2007, he was arrested and indicted on sexual assault claims
5		in Los Angeles, followed by similar filings in New York City and then Texas. In
6		November 2008, following a jury trial in Los Angeles that has been flagged with
7		several anomalies, there was a mixed verdict (guilty, not guilty, and hung) ¹ .
8	13.	Although the evidence showed there were "no assault related findings," as
9		evidenced by the lack of physical injuries on anyone, and he had no history of
10		violence, drugs, or gangs, the trial court sentenced him to 14 years plus 45 years
11		to life in prison. The conviction was upheld on appeal (People v. Alexander,
12		2012 Cal. App. Unpub. LEXIS 4547 (2012).
13	14.	Mr. ALEXANDER initiated the Interstate Agreement on Detainers and
14		favorably resolved his New York and Texas based charges by May of 2018.
15		Based on these favorable changes of circumstances, alongside evidence that was
16		mostly previously withheld and or newly discovered, a Writ of Habeas Corpus is
17		currently pending in the Central District of California (USDC Case No. CV
18		13-09302-DDP (GJS)).
19	15.	There has been a ground swell of public support as his legal proceedings have 20
21	1	Of the initial 59 counts, 37 were dismissed before trial. The guilty verdicts
22		included seven counts of committing a lewd act on a child (CA Pen. Code, §288(c)(1)), contributing to the delinquency of a minor (§272(a)(1)),
23		sexual battery by restraint (§243.4(a)), attempted forcible oral copulation
24		(§288a(c)(2), 664), forcible rape (§261(a)(2)), two counts of sexual

2		ALEXANDER has been actively involved in positive programming, has
3		acknowledged the existence of blurred lines between his personal and
4		professional relationships, has recognized the immoral lifestyle he was part of in
5		the fashion industry. Nevertheless he holds steadfast to his innocence. He has
6		been a model prisoner and recognized for his commitment towards
7		rehabilitation.
8	16.	Initial CDCR Housing Reviews reflect that he is Race Eligible (RE) and may be
9		housed with another inmate of any race. He has no escape history. He has never
10		been involved in an incident that was race related. He has no non-confidential
11		offender separation concerns. He has no enemy/safety concerns. He has no
12		history of aggression towards staff or other inmates. He has no history of in-cell
13		assaultive behavior and no history of incarcerated sexual assault. He claims no
14		affiliation with any gangs. He was designated as a Sensitive Needs Yard (SNY)
15		inmate.
16	17.	He reported to CDCR on 10/9/09 and was housed at North Kern State Prison
17		Reception Yard. He was received as a Level III inmate. He was extradited to 18		New York City and housed in Rikers Island in January of 2010. Upon the
19		resolution of his New York cases, on June 11, 2013 he transferred to the
20		California Correctional Institution (CCI) as a Level III inmate. In 2014, he was
21		transferred from CCI as a level III inmate to RJ Donovan as a Level III inmate.
22	18.	In August 23, 2018, over a month ahead of his scheduled annual committee, Mr.
23		ALEXANDER had a classification review hearing where he was told the
24		decision was to reclassify him as a Level II inmate.

- From his arrival at CCI through May 19, 2019 (while at RJ Donovan), he was housed in a sensitive needs yard. He was housed at RJ Donovan D yard until May 30, 2019, when he was transferred to general population and moved to E Yard.

 basis of available information, individual case factors, and objective criteria necessary to assign appropriate housing for all inmates. The IHA policy will ensure housing practices are made consistent with the safety, security, and treatment of the inmate, as well as the safety and security of the public, staff, and institutions."
- According to CDCR policies, Article 46 Inmate Housing Assignments, No. 12 21. 13 54046.3: "The Warden/Administrator of the institution/facility shall be responsible for maximizing proper bed utilization, ensuring inmates are 14 15 appropriately housed at the institution, implementing departmental policy in accordance with prison design and institution safety and security. Staff must use 16 17 correctional experience and training, correctional awareness, and a sense of 18 correctional reasonableness to determine suitability for dormitory, celled, and 19 single-celled housing."
- 20 22. According to CDCR policies, Article 46 Inmate Housing Assignments, No.
 21 54046.4: "All staff involved in the review and approval of an inmate's housing

 23 determining an inmate housing assignment." Factors considered include, but are 24 not limited to:
 - a. Length of sentence.

- b. Enemies and victimization history.
- c. Criminal influence demonstrated over other inmates.
- 28 d. Vulnerability of the inmate due to medical, mental health, and disabilities.

1		e. Reason(s) for segregation.

2		f. History of "S" suffix determination.
3		g. History of in-cell assaults and/or violence.
4		h. Prison gang or disruptive group affiliation and/or association.
5		i. Nature of commitment offense.
6	23.	This lawsuit stems from an event which occurred on May 18, 2019. On that
7		date, in D Yard, he was the victim of a grievous assault perpetrated by another
8		inmate. It was likely a racially motivated hate crime. The attack caused grave
9		bodily injuries, including multiple stab wounds to his face and right eye
10		(requiring over a dozen stitches at the upper orbital) ³ , five facial fractures, a
11		lower orbital floor blowout, sinus and nasal fractures, a deviated septum, a 50%
12		abrasion of the right cornea, long term impairment of his vision and respiration,
13		serious nerve damage, PTSD, psychological collateral damage, ongoing therapy,
14		work, and education restriction. At least two serious surgeries have been
15		recommended by medical experts and they presently cannot rule out permanent
16		damage.
17	24.	Mr. ALEXANDER, a "first tier" resident, was waiting by the telephones to call
18		his mother for her 70th birthday (May 18, 2019) when a Level IV inmate named
19		Dominic Rizzo ⁴ , CDCR #V04967 ⁵ , a "second tier" inmate, somehow managed 20
21	3	See Exhibit 1.
22	4	He was convicted of murder, attempted murder, and street terrorism, and it
23		was found to be true that the conspiracy to commit murder and attempted murder offenses were committed for the benefit of a criminal street gang,
24		and the attempted murder offense was committed with willful
25		premeditation and deliberation. The trial court sentenced Rizzo to 25
26		years to life. See People v. Rizzo (Apr. 8, 2005, G032981) Cal.App.4th [2005 Cal. App. Unpub. LEXIS 3225].
28	3	A correctional officer (not sued herein) advised Plaintiff that Rizzo was "a beast" and stated "I don't know why he is on my yard." This correctional

1 to/or was allowed to sneak up on Mr. ALEXANDER from behind and stab Mr. 2 ALEXANDER multiple times in the face. While bloodied and blacked out on the 3 floor, Mr. ALEXANDER was kicked and beaten. This attack on Mr. ALEXANDER was nothing less than an attempted murder committed by Rizzo. 4 5 Dayroom access at every CDCR cell institution alternates day room activity such 6 that first and second tier inmates would not be allowed to come into physicial 7 contact with each other. This is for inmate control, officer safety and the 8 protection of both. 9 25. It was followed by a subsequent death threat on May 25th by Justin Simons CDCR #AK5535, Rizzo's accomplice. 4 days after a compatibility chrono was 10 11 filed based upon the assault, Simons told Plaintiff "Don't mess with my pops. 12 You had better plead guilty (to the RVR) or your eye will be the least of your 13 problems. Do you know how many people we have taken out on this yard?" When Plaintiff expressed that he had no idea who Simons was referring to 14 15 (having not ever met or even seen Rizzo up to this point) Simons said "Rizzo is 16 my pops. We are more related than family. Both Rizzo and Simons are known white supremacists⁶. 17 18 19 officer stated he was going to write a Confidential Information Memorandum to Rizzo's file on the grounds that Rizzo was a Level IV 20 with a history of violence. A correctional sergeant (not sued herein) 21 thereafter intervened and advised Plaintiff that a 115 Rules Violation Report had been authored and was pending. That same sergeant advised 22 Plaintiff to delay the hearing and demand the reporting officer testify. 23 That same sergeant also advised Plaintiff that "you are safer here, but if convicted you will stay at a level III yard." Other correctional officers 24 (not sued herein) subsequently told Plaintiff that Rizzo had admitted to the 25 115 Rules Violation Report and expressed surprise that Plaintiff wasn't 26 leading guilty also. None of this documentation has been produced. 27 6 See People v. Jeffries (Apr. 8, 2010, No. G042058) Cal.App.4th 28 [2010 Cal. App. Unpub. LEXIS 2555], wherein Mr. Rizzo testified under

1 26. Plaintiff told a correctional officer (not sued herein) about the threat. He advised 2 Plaintiff's options were: (1) go to the hole and nothing happens to Rizzo or Simons; (2) lose and get sent to a Level III yard elsewhere; or (3) win and go to 3 a Level II yard. That correctional officer suggested Plaintiff prepare for the 4 5 hearing. A few days later, specifically May 29, 2019, Simons was banging on 6 Plaintiff's cell door. He displayed a shank, called Plaintiff a motherfucker, and 7 said "I'm going to get you, there is a green light." Plaintiff reported the threat 8 and on information and belief both Simons and Rizzo's cells were searched. For 9 10 a grant of immunity that he "ran" Public Enemy Number 1 (PENI) in 11 2006. According to the Anti-Defamation League, PENI is an unusual 12 hybrid of a racist skinhead gang, street gang and prison gang. Since the early 2000s, the group has grown considerably, particularly in California, 13 where it originated, and has also spread to nearby states. PENI's increasing 14 strength stems to a large degree from its ability to position itself as a white power criminal organization capable of operating both on the streets and 15 in the prison yards as foot soldiers for older, more established white 16 supremacist prison gangs, such as the Aryan Brotherhood...The group has also raised its profile in the California prison system, where incarcerated 17 members attempt to gain more recruits and influence. PENI's increasing 18 strength stems to a large degree from its ability to position itself as a white 19 power criminal organization capable of operating both on the streets and in the prison yards as foot soldiers for older, more established white 20 supremacist prison gangs, such as the Aryan Brotherhood....a regular 21 inmate can only be sentenced to a SHU if he is a threat to institutional security or has been rigorously proven to be an associate of a prison gang 22 (Donald Mazza, Nick Rizzo and Devlin Stringfellow, three top PENI were 23 all given SHU sentences in this way). PENI members play an important role in California's prison gang structure, thanks in large part to the Aryan 24 Brotherhood." see 25 www.adl.org/education/resources/profiles/public-enemy-number-one.html 26 16 members of the Aryan Brotherhood were recently indicted. 27 www.justice.gov/usao-edca/pr/aryan-brotherhood-members-and-associate 28 s-charged-racketeering-directing-murders-and

1		his protection, Plaintiff was locked in his cell. No required written record of a
2		cell lock was provided to Plaintiff as he requested.
3	27.	CDCR and the Defendants failed to protect Mr. ALEXANDER, by knowingly
4		allowing a known violent Level IV assailant to be housed with, and have open
5		access to, Mr. ALEXANDER, a Level II low risk inmate with no history of
6		violence classified as a sensitive needs inmate. At no time should these two
7		inmates have been on the same yard, much less the same floor, at the same time.
8	28.	Further, the staff at RJ Donovan have attempted to cover up the incident in
9		several ways, going so far as to try and incriminate Mr. ALEXANDER, the only
10		actual victim.
11		a. No criminal referral pursuant to 15 CCR § 3316 has been made to local
12		prosecuting authorities even though the stabbing and vicious beating of
13		Mr. ALEXANDER prima facie qualifies as an "attempted murder";
14		"assault with a deadly weapon" and the infliction of "great bodily injury."
15		On information and belief, RJDCF has a voluminous of history of District
16		Attorney referrals for far less serious incidents, including Plaintiff's
17		cellmate, who was assaulted without any weapons.
18		b. Despite the seriousness of the attack and Mr. ALEXANDER's injuries, it
19		took over 10 days after the incident before Mr. ALEXANDER was
20		transferred to an appropriate sensitive needs lower yard. Mr.
21		ALEXANDER had been previously endorsed to a lower level yard and
22		had been actively perusing this transfer was supposed to have been
23		transferred as far back as September 2018. Any excuse of lack of "bed
24		space" to have moved him to a lower yard sooner or that right after being
25		stabbed, blinded and under serious medication. Mr. ALEXANDER
26		allegedly signed some "marriage chrono" will be shown as unavailing.
27		c. Defendant RAMIREZ, the reporting CDCR Corrections Officer, prepared
28		a false Rules Violation Report relating that the assault was no more than

1		"fighting" (i.e. mutual Combat) and reported no serious injuries with
2		respect to Mr. ALEXANDER. Medical records clearly show otherwise7.
3		Rizzo suffered no injuries and, as noted above, went on to plead guilty to a
4		rules violation ⁸ .
5	29.	The institution failed (or refused) to transfer Mr. ALEXANDER to a lower-level
6		yard as recommended because they told them it was be contingent on the
7		outcome of the RVR hearing (based on the false report of "fighting"). A true
8		finding (i.e. guilty verdict) would have the effect of raising his points and make
9		him ineligible for such a transfer. Mr. ALEXANDER was given a hearing on
10		May 30, 2019, where the Rules Violation Report was dismissed at the last
11		moment ⁹ . He was then transferred out to lower level II (E Yard) within the same
12		hour. This clearly indicates an attempt to avoid having the reporting officer
13		answer difficult questions under penalty of perjury and to keep the incident
14		under wraps.
15	30.	It took over 7 months of administrative appeals to obtain the above referenced
16		incident report and to have those involved in the stabbing/assault or death threats
17
18	7	See attached photograph of injuries.
19	8	On information and belief, even after pleading guilty to this assault, Rizzo
20		(a Level IV "override") was allowed to stay on the yard for at least another
21		three months where he went on to assault other inmates.
22	9	On May 30, a correctional sergeant (not sued herein) advised Plaintiff that his hearing was "right now" but im I'm go delay it until Lt. Ortiz comes
23		onto duty next shift." It was Plaintiff's impression that Lt. Ortiz was more
24		fair than the on duty lieutenant. Plaintiff was held in the gym until the hearing was to start. Presented with a photo lineup. Plaintiff identified

26		formality, just dont call the officer (Defendant RAMIREZ) to testify and
27		we are going to move you out of here." He was taken straight from the gym to E yard, where he remains today. This was when he learned that
28		the officer who saw the assault/attempted murder was about 72 feet away.

1 placed on Mr. ALEXANDER's "enemy list.¹⁰" The basis of the "RVR hearing" 2 dismissal has not been provided to date despite a request. 3 Furthermore, the institution dragged out Mr. ALEXANDER's request for a 31. second opinion on surgery to such a point that, the delay made it impossible to 4 5 go ahead with the recommended surgeries due to the time lapse. This has 6 resulted in potential additional risks. His double vision and nerve damage are 7 projected to be long-lasting, if not permanent, and has already compromised his 8 day-to-day activities including his rehabilitation efforts, educational and 9 vocational programs. Further, the institution failed to treat a deviated septum.. On a similar note, despite going through the 602 process, the institution has not 10 cleared access to dental surgery¹¹. Further despite a medical chrono requiring 11 complete rest or light duty, Plaintiff was put on heavy duty, to start at 5 am. 12 13 However, as a result of administrative appeals, this assignment was excused. To its credit, the mental health department seems to be the only part of the 14 32. 15 institution that has reasonably assisted and documented of Mr. ALEXANDER's extraordinary suffering, PTSD, and other cruel and unusual punishment. He lives 16 17

¹⁰ Once at E yard, Plaintiff began making inquiries of new arrivals to try to get information. Inmate John Boland (CDCR AR8194) told Plaintiff that Rizzo had assaulted 2 other people in a race related incident on D Yard. In retaliation, a Samoan inmate allegedly stabbed Rizzo and therefore Rizzo was moved for his safety. In E yard, Plaintiff was sexually harrassed by his cellmate, who was thereafter evicted from the cell based upon a prior history. None of these events has apparently been documented either.

 ¹¹ CDCR currently limits root canals to only the first six front teeth while ¹¹ Mr. ALEXANDER requires two root canals towards his back teeth. These teeth are quite close to his injuries and an infection of his rear teeth could prove devastating. Plaintiff was given the option to pay for an outside dentist to perform this needed surgery. The Institution has refused to accommodate him.

1		in constant fear, not just from safety concerns of being targeted as a minority in
2		any of the California prisons, but due to the deliberate indifference, subsequent
3		cover up, and betrayal of the custody and care his life to which the prison was
4		entrusted.
5	33.	The CDCR's actions in allowing the attack to occur, followed by a brazen
6		attempt to cover up, shows an overt deliberate indifference. Separately, their
7		failure to provide necessary ongoing medical treatment constitutes further
8		deliberate indifference to Mr. ALEXANDER's safety and welfare. The harm is
9		extraordinary.
10	34.	In sum, the institution failed to (1) follow its own rules, (2) keep necessary
11		documentation of the event, and (3) initiate a referral to the District Attorney for
12		consideration of formal charges against the assailant. Mr. ALEXANDER
13		continues to have an exemplary in-custody record of successfully participating in
14		rehabilitation programs with zero indication or incidents of violence.

3		to fend for themselves" and are, therefore, far more vulnerable than the
4		general population. See Hare v. City of Corinth, 74 F.3d 633, 639 (5th Cir.
5		1996). It is long settled that "prison officials have a duty to protect
6		prisoners from violence at the hands of other prisoners" because
7		corrections officers have "stripped [the inmates] of virtually every means
8		of self-protection and foreclosed their access to outside aid." Farmer v.
9		Brennan, 511 U.S. 825, 833 (1994) (internal quotation marks omitted).
10		The risk of inmate-on-inmate violence in the prison setting - especially in
11		a level IV facility - is well known. Prison officials, lieutenants, sergeants,
12		and correctional officers are not permitted to "bury their heads in the 13		sand" and ignore these obvious risks to the inmate populations that they
14		have an affirmative duty to protect. See Walton v. Dawson, 752 F.3d
15		1109, 1119 (8th Cir. 2014)
16	37.	The listed Defendants knew or had reason to know that housing Mr.
17		ALEXANDER with a violent inmate like Rizzo, who posed a substantial risk of
18		serious harm to Mr. ALEXANDER, in view of the multitude of factors as
19		described above.
20	38.	At the time Mr. ALEXANDER was attacked by Rizzo, Defendants RAMIREZ
21		and DOES 11-30 were the floor officers that were responsible for conducting
22		proper cell checks, supervising inmates, and were responsible for protecting
23		inmates from inmate-on-inmate violence.
24	39.	By the actions and omissions described above, the individually named
25		Defendants violated 42 U.S.C. § 1983, depriving Plaintiff of the following
26		well-settled constitutional right(s) that are protected by the First and Eighth
27		Amendments to the U.S. Constitution:
28		a. The right to be protected from violence at the hands of other prisoners

ii
1		while in custody and confined in a state prison, as well as the right to one's
2		liberty in bodily integrity, as secured by the Eighth Amendment;
3		b. The listed Defendants' failure to intervene, prevent, or stop the
4		constitutional violations by others, when Defendants were in a position to 5		so intervene when such violations were occurring, also renders such
6		Defendant(s) liable for these violations.
7	40.	The above acts and omissions, while carried out under color of law, have no
8		justification or excuse in law, and instead constitute a gross abuse of
9		governmental authority and power, shock the conscience, are fundamentally
10		unfair, arbitrary and oppressive, and unrelated to any activity in which
11		governmental officers may appropriately and legally undertake in the course of 12		protecting persons or property, or ensuring civil order. The above acts and
13		omissions were consciously chosen from among various alternatives.
14	41.	Defendants subjected Plaintiff to their wrongful conduct, depriving Plaintiff of
15		the rights described herein, knowingly, maliciously, and with conscious and
16		reckless disregard for whether the rights and safety of Plaintiff and others would
17		be violated by their acts and/or omissions.
18	42.	As a direct and proximate result of the foregoing unconstitutional actions,
19		omissions, practices, and/or procedures of Defendants, and each of them,
20		Plaintiff sustained injuries and damages, as set forth above. Plaintiff is therefore
21		entitled to general and compensatory damages in an amount to be proven at trial.
22	43.	In committing the acts alleged above, the individually named Defendants acted
23		maliciously and/or were guilty of a wanton and reckless disregard for the rights,
24		safety, and emotional well-being of Plaintiff, and by reason thereof, Plaintiff is
25		entitled to punitive damages and penalties allowable under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and

Mr. ALEXANDER incorporates by reference and realleges paragraph 1-34 of this complaint.

9 46. As supervisors, Defendants DIAZ, POLLARD, PARAJO and DOES 1-10, and each of them, permitted and failed to prevent the unconstitutional acts of other 10 Defendants and individuals under their supervision and control, and failed to 11 12 properly supervise such individuals, with deliberate indifference to the rights of 13 Mr. ALEXANDER. Each of these supervising Defendants either directed his or her subordinates in conduct that violated Plaintiff's rights, OR set in motion a 14 15 series of acts and omissions by his or her subordinates that the supervisor knew 16 or reasonably should have known would deprive Plaintiff of rights, OR knew his 17 or her subordinates were engaging in acts likely to deprive Mr. ALEXANDER 18 of rights and failed to act to prevent his or her subordinate from engaging in such conduct, OR disregarded the consequence of a known or obvious training 19 deficiency that he or she must have known would cause subordinates to violate 20 21 Plaintiff's rights, and in fact did cause the violation of Mr. ALEXANDER's rights. 22

47. Furthermore, each of these supervising Defendants is liable in their failures to intervene in their subordinates' apparent violations of Plaintiffs' rights.

48. As a direct and proximate result of the foregoing unconstitutional actions, omissions, practices, and/or procedures of Defendants DIAZ, POLLARD, PARAJO and DOES 1-10, Plaintiff sustained injuries and damages, as set forth above. Plaintiff is therefore entitled to general and compensatory damages in an

1		amount to be proven at trial.
2	49.	In committing the acts alleged above, Defendants DIAZ, POLLARD, PARAJO
3		and DOES 1-10, acted maliciously and/or were guilty of a wanton and reckless
4		disregard for the rights, safety, and emotional well-being of Plaintiff, and by
5		reason thereof, Plaintiff is entitled to punitive damages and penalties allowable
6		under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and other state and federal law against Defendants in an
7		amount according to proof at the time of trial in order to deter the defendants
8		from engaging in similar conduct and to make an example by way of monetary
9		punishment.
10	50.	Plaintiff is also entitled to reasonable costs and attorney's fees under 42 U.S.C. §

12		THIRD CLAIM FOR RELIEF 42 U.S.C. § 1983 DELIBERATE INDIFFERENCE TO MEDICAL CONDITION
13		DELIBERATE INDIFFERENCE TO MEDICAL CONDITION [Against All Defendants]
14	51.	Mr. ALEXANDER incorporates by reference and realleges paragraph 1-34 of
15	• 11	this complaint.
16	52.	In doing the acts alleged herein, Defendants, and each of them, breached their
17		duty under the Eighth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution to refrain from
18		deliberate indifference to Mr. ALEXANDER's medical condition, meaning in
19		this case they were required to ensure that Mr. ALEXANDER, who was in their
20		custody, was provided with appropriate medical treatment for severe, life
21		threatening injuries.
22	53.	Mr. ALEXANDER evidenced a serious medical need, and failure to treat his
23		condition by providing root canal surgery would result in further significant
24		injury or the unnecessary and wanton infliction of pain. Defendants were
25 26		deliberately indifferent through their purposeful act or failure to respond to his
26 27		medical need and the delay led to further unnecessary pain, discomfort and
27 28		injury.
28

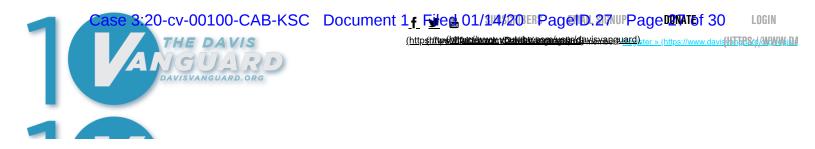

1	54.	As a direct and proximate result of the foregoing unconstitutional actions,
2		omissions, practices, and/or procedures of Defendants, and each of them,
3		Plaintiff sustained injuries and damages, as set forth above. Plaintiff is therefore
4		entitled to general and compensatory damages in an amount to be proven at trial.
5	55.	In committing the acts alleged above, Defendants, and each of them, acted
6		maliciously and/or were guilty of a wanton and reckless disregard for the rights,
7		safety, and emotional well-being of Plaintiff, and by reason thereof, Plaintiff is
8		entitled to punitive damages and penalties allowable under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and
9		other state and federal law against Defendants in an amount according to proof at
10		the time of trial in order to deter the defendants from engaging in similar conduct
11		and to make an example by way of monetary punishment.
12	56.	Plaintiff is also entitled to reasonable costs and attorney's fees under 42 U.S.C. §
13		1988.
14		FOURTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF VIOLATION OF CIVIL CODE 8 52 1(b)
15		VIOLATION OF CIVIL CODE § 52.1(b) [Against All Defendants]
16	57.	Mr. ALEXANDER incorporates by reference and realleges paragraph 1-34 of

18	58.	By their acts, omissions, customs, and policies, Defendants, and each of them,
19		acting in concert/conspiracy, as described above, and with threat, intimidation,
20		and/or coercion, violated Plaintiff's rights under California Civil Code § 52.1 and
21		the following clearly established rights under the United States Constitution and
22		California Constitution and law:
23		a. Plaintiff's right to be free from deliberate indifference to Mr.

As a direct and proximate result of the foregoing unconstitutional actions, omissions, practices, and/or procedures of Defendants, Plaintiff sustained injuries and damages, as set forth above. Plaintiff is therefore entitled to general and compensatory damages in an amount to be proven at trial.1961. In committing the acts alleged above, Defendants acted maliciously and/or were guilty of a wanton and reckless disregard for the rights, safety, and emotional well-being of Plaintiff, and by reason thereof, Plaintiff is entitled to punitive damages and penalties allowable under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and other state and federal law against Defendants from engaging in similar conduct and to make an example by way of monetary punishment.2762. 1		FIFTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
2		Negligence [Against All Defendants]
3	63.	Mr. ALEXANDER incorporates by reference and realleges paragraph 1-34 of
4		this complaint.
5	64.	Defendants were negligent in regards to Mr. ALEXANDER's health, safety and
6		welfare, and breached that duty of care.
7	65.	Defendants breached their mandatory duties to act with due care in the execution
8		and enforcement of any right, law, or legal obligation.
9	66.	At all material times, each Defendant owed Mr. ALEXANDER the duty to act
10		with reasonable care. These general duties of reasonable care and due care owed
11		to Mr. ALEXANDER by all Defendants include, but are not limited, to the
12		following specific obligations:
13		a. To provide safe and appropriate CDCR custody for Mr. ALEXANDER,
14		including reasonable classification, monitoring, and housing, and ensuring
15		proper cell checks, supervision, and monitoring;
16		b. To obey federal law, Supreme Court and Ninth Circuit precedent, and
17		Court Orders for the care and safety of inmates, such as Mr.
18		ALEXANDER;
19		c. To use generally accepted prison, custodial, institutional, law
20		enforcement, and other inmate-safety-ensuring procedures that are

Analysis: Was Wrongfully Convicted Fashion Designer a Victim of Racial Prejudice on the Part of Prosecutor?

Share:

In 2008, Anand Jon Alexander, a rising star in the fashion design world, was convicted of multiple counts of sexual assault and received a life sentence in prison. He is widely believed to have been wrongfully convicted of these crimes.

As his petition for commutation filed by his attorneys notes, "Mr. Alexander's tainted trial and unreliable verdict and subsequently disproportionate prison sentence has resulted in a travesty of justice."

Jeffrey Deskovic, himself an exoneree and head of the Jeffrey Deskovic Foundation, told the Vanguard, "Anand Jon's case is fraught with prosecutorial misconduct and bad lawyering. It is no wonder he was wrongfully convicted."

In a letter, Mr. Deskovic, who will be the Vanguard's keynote speaker in a few weeks (http://progressive-prosecution.eventbrite.com), added, "I have never seen a wrongful conviction case as broad and complex as this one. It's absolutely stunning!"

Similarly, having reviewed the evidence of factual innocence that was withheld by the police for over a decade, Exoneree Obie Anthony, founder of Exoneratednation.org, and former California Assemblywoman Patty Lopez, the author of Assembly Bill 1909, described the injustice against Anand Jon Alexander as "one of the worst cases of police misconduct...utterly shocking...poster boy victim of 1909 violations."

Corey Parker, Counsel for American Justice Alliance, argues in his amicus curiae brief, "Unless this Court rectifies this wrongful conviction, minority groups and individuals in the State of California will live in fear of being subject to such similar state-sponsored discrimination and underhanded, unconstitutional tactics by the very law enforcement tasked with protecting them."

Appellate Attorney Julia Anna Trant adds, "I am convinced that Mr. Alexander's conviction is one of the worst miscarriages of justice I have ever encountered in my work as a legal professional. While working on Mr. Alexander's case, I could not stop being astounded by the amount of violations of Mr. Alexander's constitutional rights, the rules of criminal procedure, and the rules of evidence."

While there are a sumber of complainty ring of the mission of the substantian and police less on the substantian and solice less on the substantian and solice less of the substantian and soli llr=dfdf98bab&p=oi&m=1101518769315&sit=99enzcbcb&f=64669ab4-a397-4800-9775-08e36bfe25c9)appeal to racial and religious prejudice. In pretrial motions, the defense was able to get the judge to keep race and religion out of the case. However, they kept coming back in. For instance, in a debate over whether a book would be admitted into evidence, the defense argued that "the court already said we're keeping religion out of this case." During voir dire, Deputy DA Young noted, "I thought earlier when the court ruled we wouldn't delve into religion, it wouldn't touch on that area, so I didn't object to it originally, but I thought it got into the moral, religious, spiritual areas we were trying to stay from." The judge noted, "I'm not going to permit it," and later clarified, "No, it's out, I'm not going to allow it." However, despite the court's admonishment, Ms. Young on behalf of the state was able to get racial issues before the jury during her closing arguments. Mr. Parker writes, "Mr. Alexander's conviction has been tainted by myriad due process violations and inescapable prejudice. The role that race, religion, and national origin played in his conviction has shaken the belief of Amici that South Asians, Middle Easterners, and other minorities can receive equal protection under the laws of this state." We can see these appeals in the transcript of Deputy DA Frances Young's rebuttal closing arguments. The alleged victims are 19 girls - who are white. Ms. Young sets the scene, noting that all of the girls described the same scene - an assault on a "cruddy air mattress... with dirty sheets, dirty towels, smelly t-shirts." She argued, "You know that Ferrari T-shirt that the clerk has. I don't know if you want to do that, take a whiff of it. It's not pleasant. It corroborates exactly what they said. He smelled. His apartment was disgusting." Later she added, "They all told you he smelled." As Mr. Parker points out, this is not an accident. He writes, "Mr. Alexander was a filthy outsider to the community, a 'dirty' and 'smelly' 'Hindu from India,' who read foreign Hebrew symbols 'from right to left' ... " Mr. Alexander, from India, also has a Jewish background. Mr. Parker argued, "The gratuitous remarks made in Mr. Alexander's case served no purpose other than to 'inflame and prejudice the minds of the jurors against the defendant because he happened to be a [South Asian immigrant]." But perhaps more egregious, Ms. Young played on racial stereotypes as well. She noted in her rebuttal, "Being a minority, I noticed that they were all white." She was able to work in the reference subtly, despite official judicial admonishment not to bring race into the equation. Here the DA uses that longtime racial dog whistle, the fear of the white jurors that innocent, young, white girls or women will become the victims of a predatory person of color. Mr. Parker argues, "Insinuating that a minority defendant preys upon white women is a highly inflammatory tactic that has been consistently treated as prosecutorial misconduct warranting relief." He notes that Florida's high court reversed a death sentence because the prosecutor's inquiry into the race of past victims was a "deliberate attempt to insinuate that appellant had a habit of preying on white women." Previously, courts found this to be a prejudicial error in a case where the prosecution argued that the black defendant told the white victim "something about white people having been taking advantage of the colored people and, of course, he wanted to get even with the white people." Argues Mr. Parker, "Statistics have shown decisively that a victim's race can powerfully sway a jury, even to the extent that the race of a victim can play a dispositive role in whether a defendant lives or dies." Mr. Parker adds, "After portraying Mr. Alexander as a mystical and smelly foreigner, the prosecution maximized the prejudicial impact by presenting a contrast with the whiteness of the alleged victims. Beyond merely insinuating that Mr. Alexander had a preference for white women, the prosecution directly told the jury that he preyed specifically and exclusively on white women. This tactic presents a clear case of misconduct, and its prejudicial impact cannot reasonably be questioned."

In a recent Supreme Court case, the court ruled, in reviewing the history of the state of Mississippi's peremptory strikes in the Flowers case, that evidence "strongly supports the conclusion that the State's use of peremptory strikes in Flowers' sixth trial was motivated in substantial part by discriminatory intent."

Indeed, the state attempted to strike all 36 black prospective jurors over the court of the first four trials – Curtis Flowers has been tried six separate times for his alleged role in the murder of four employees of a Mississippi furniture store.

Mr. Flowers is black; three of the four victims were white. The US Supreme Court ultimately found that the trial court "committed clear error in concluding that the State's peremptory strike of black prospective juror Carolyn Wright was not motivated in substantial part by discriminatory intent."

In this case, the prosecutor has improperly injected race into a trial, as Mr. Parker argues. This would tend to "undermine [the courts'] strong commitment to rooting out bias, no matter how subtle, indirect or veiled."

As Patty Lopez, a former California Assemblymember noted in her letter to US Judge Dean Pregerson in January, in support of the writ of habeas corpus, the trial judge on the record stated he was "troubled" with this case and "not happy with the way the [prosecutors] handled this case.""

	There are a lot of problems with the case of Anand Jon Alexander, but appeals to racial and religious prejudice were clear and overt during his trial and need to be rectified during the post-conviction process.
